

Machine Vision for Quality Control

Automatic Solutions S.A.S provides your company with new technologies to improve processes and minimize human errors. Machine vision inspection plays an important role in achieving this goal. While human inspectors working on assembly lines visually examine parts to assess quality, machine vision systems use cameras and image processing software to perform similar inspections.

Watch Video <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=3m-w7KMHYkU>

These cameras allow the reading of low-relief surfaces, enabling the identification of different codes that conventional scanners could not detect.

